DETAILED ACTION

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 30, 33-37, 39, 40 and 42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Voegeli (279) in view of Hosoi (707).

It is first noted that the cables are not regarded as being positively claimed. Voegeli teaches a pedestal closure assembly including a dome 12 slidably mounted onto and removable from a base 11, 21, a mounting plate 31, 32 which is capable of supporting cables 33, 34, a lock 23 mounted on the lower portion of the dome 12, a portion 29 of the lock positioned on an interior of the dome as seen in fig. 2, at least a portion of the lock at 29 defined by the nuts having an outer surface which is regarded as free from sharp edges to be capable of avoiding snagging of cables, wherein the lock also includes a latch 27. The faces (or side walls) of the nuts define slanted surfaces relative to one another, which include at least one upper slanted surface and at least one lower slanted surfaces. The edges where these slanted surfaces meet are regarded as not being sharp. It is also noted that the term "sharp" is a relative term, and a conventional nut having outer surfaces which meet at edges are not regarded as being sharp. It is also noted that cables are not being positively claimed. Further, the nuts 29 of the lock as seen in figure 2 are clearly intended to be spaced far enough away from any cables which are capable of occupying the dome, to avoid the potential snagging of cables. As seen in fig. 3, the lock also includes at least one rounded corner shown as the circular portion of the lock, defined by the threaded bolt which receives the nuts 29. The lock 29 is regarded as being in close proximity to the mounting plate 31, 32. Hosoi teaches a latch 23 free from sharp edges and including rounded corners and rounded intersections of the latch, wherein the latch locks the base 1 to the cover 13 of the container. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the latch 27 of the lock of Voegeli to be free from sharp edges, and to include rounded corners and rounded intersections, in view of the teaching of Hosoi, the motivation being to prevent damage to any adjacent lock structure, or any contents within the dome of Voegeli.

Claims 1-3, 6, 14-16, 19 and 25-29 are allowed.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 30, 33-37, 39, 40 and 42 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
